The Story Plot: Tigger's Compromise

Tigger, the Troy Beach cat who walks by himself, faces climate change.

Values: Wants to enjoy an independent life in Troy Beach.

Conflicts: Climate change makes well-being challenging.

Resolutions: Redefines well-being.

What:

Flooding increasing. Beach-oriented resources diminished.

Where:

Troy Beach.

Who:

Tigger (the cat).

When:

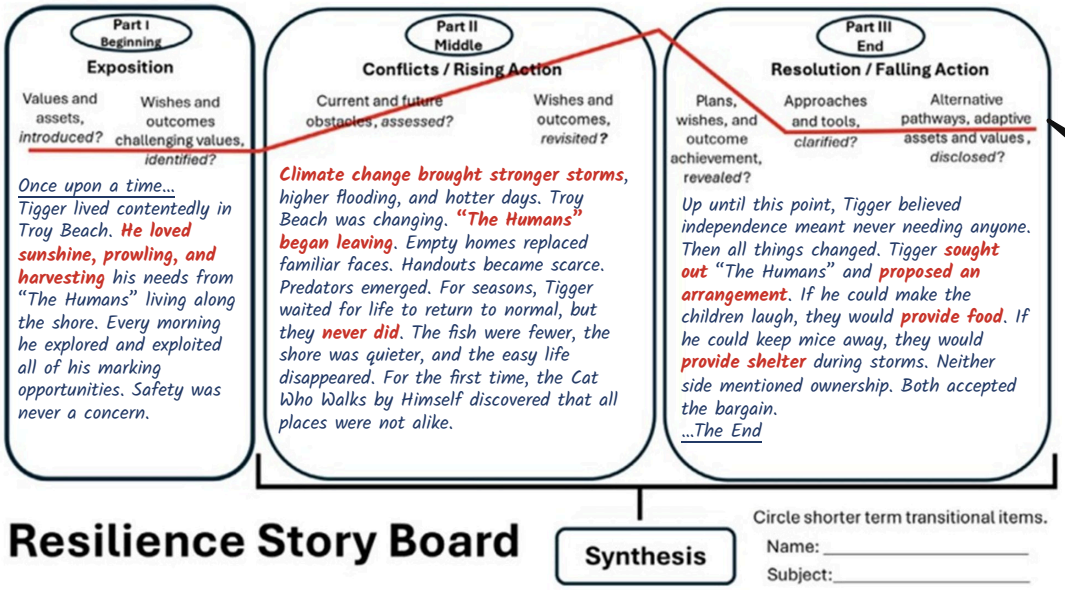

Threshold crossed. Cat's "Humans" had disappeared.

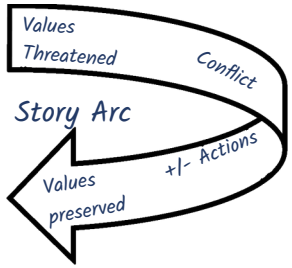

Why:

Traditional assets destroyed.

How:

Climate change changes behavior.

Plot Action: Rising/Lowering

Epilogue: Tigger kept his promise. He made the family laugh and hunted mice. He proved he could adapt without surrendering his independence. When conditions were pleasant, he wandered outside and walked by himself. When storms arrived, he accepted shelter. When food was scarce, he accepted help. He learned that resilience did not require isolation. The Cat Who Walks by Himself remained free. He had simply learned that all places are not alike, and that wisdom sometimes means knowing when to negotiate.

From Resilient Shores: Adapting to Climate Change Through Storytelling by Bob Freitag. ResilientShores.org